The relation between science and policy

Two cultures: a difficult dialogue

Can you tell me where I am?
I am lost

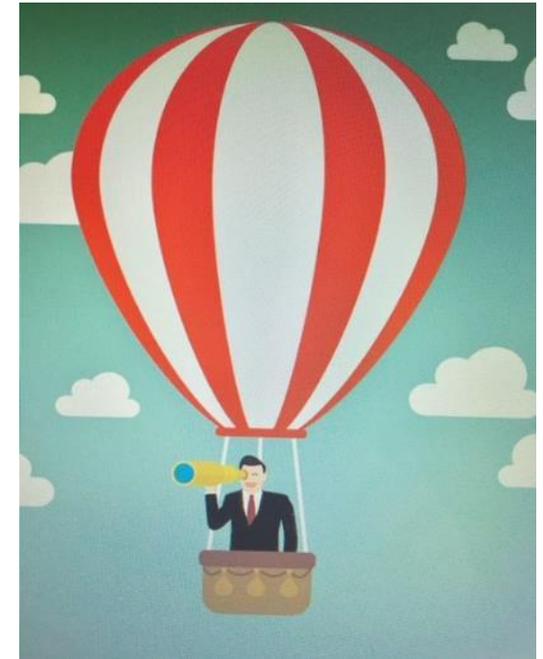

You are at Latitude 45.6495°
North and Longitude 13.7768°
East. I am standing at 300 metres above sea level, so you must be at about 330 metres.

Two cultures: a difficult dialogue

You must be a scientist.
I ask you a simple question, and you give me too much information.
And I am still lost

You must be a policymaker.
You come out of nowhere with your questions. I give you the most accurate and precise answer I can. You are still lost and you blame me.

The need to bridge science-policy divide

An approach to facilitate the dialogue

Knowledge Management and Sense-making

We are drowning in information, while starving for wisdom. The world henceforth will be run by synthesizers, people able to put together the right information at the right time, think critically about it and make important choices wisely.
